COVID-19

The COVID-19 pandemic has changed our lives dramatically and has sparked many questions about the health, social and economic effects on our nations.

Data in the UK Data Service collection can be used to begin to understand these questions and to give context for the current inequalities being experienced due to the COVID-19 lockdown. Data have been collected and are made available on topics such as finance, employment, education, ageing, food, crime, the environment, attitudes and much more. In this rapidly changing landscape, the data will continue to adapt. It is expected that many studies will begin to include questions specific to COVID-19, and when ready much of this data will be made available through the UK Data Service. Dataset: British Social Attitudes Survey, 2021

British Social Attitudes Survey, 1983-

Abstract

Abstract copyright UK Data Service and data collection copyright owner.

Background

ThenBritish Social Attitudes (BSA) survey series began in 1983. The series is designed to produce annual measures of attitudinal movements to complement large-scale government surveys that deal largely with facts and behaviour patterns, and the data on party political attitudes produced by opinion polls. One of the BSA's main purposes is to allow the monitoring of patterns of continuity and change, and the examination of the relative rates at which attitudes, in respect of a range of social issues, change over time. Some questions are asked regularly, others less often. Funding for BSA comes from a number of sources (including government departments, the Economic and Social Research Council and other research foundations), but the final responsibility for the coverage and wording of the annual questionnaires rests with NatCen Social Research (formerly Social and Community Planning Research). The BSA has been conducted every year since 1983, except in 1988 and 1992 when core funding was devoted to the British Election Study (BES).

Further information about the series and links to publications may be found on the NatCen Social Research British Social Attitudes webpage.

The 2021 BSA survey used a mixed-mode push-to-web design with an optional Computer-Assisted Telephone Interview (CATI) opt-in. Letters were sent to a random sample of addresses inviting up to two household members to complete the survey online, with an option to be interviewed by phone if preferred. This is the same design used for the 2020 BSA. Before 2020, BSA was a face-to-face survey, but this was changed due to the public health measures introduced in the wake of the COVID-19 pandemic. The full BSA 2021 report, Broken Britain? Public attitudes in an era of crisis is available from the NatCen Social Research website.

Main Topics:

Each year, the BSA interview questionnaire contains a number of 'core' questions, which are repeated in most years. In addition, a wide range of background and classificatory questions is included. The remainder of the questionnaire is devoted to a series of questions (modules) on a range of social, economic, political and moral issues - some are asked regularly, others less often. Cross-indexes of those questions asked more than once appear in the reports.

In 2021 the questionnaire included the following topics: Household Composition, Employment, Politics, Welfare, Benefits and Income, National Identity and Ethnicity, Religion, Disability, Education, EU Referendum and the General Election, Benefits and Income, Spending and Governance, Immigration, Equal Opportunities, Identity and Britishness, Work and Health, Child Maintenance, Digital, Work and COVID-19, Pensions and Retirement, Sexual Relationships, Parental Leave, Disability, Mental Health and the Workplace, Social Mobility, Social Class, Satisfaction with Health and Care Services, Health and Care Spending, NHS Priorities and Principles, New Home Building, Buying or Renting a Home, COVID-19 and the Home.

The screenshot shows a web interface with a sidebar on the left and a main content area on the right. The sidebar is titled 'Complete actions for access' and contains four items: 'Introduction' (with a pencil icon), 'Accept standard EUL' (with a green checkmark icon), 'Complete Special Licence Bundle' (with a yellow warning triangle icon and highlighted), and 'Depositor approval' (with a clock icon). The main content area is titled 'Complete Special Licence Bundle' and contains the following text:

To access data subject to the Special Licence Agreement a completed project application bundle must be submitted. The bundle consists of:

1. the Project Application Form which must be completed once by the project lead; and
2. the Special Licence User Agreement which must be completed and signed by each member of the project accessing the data.

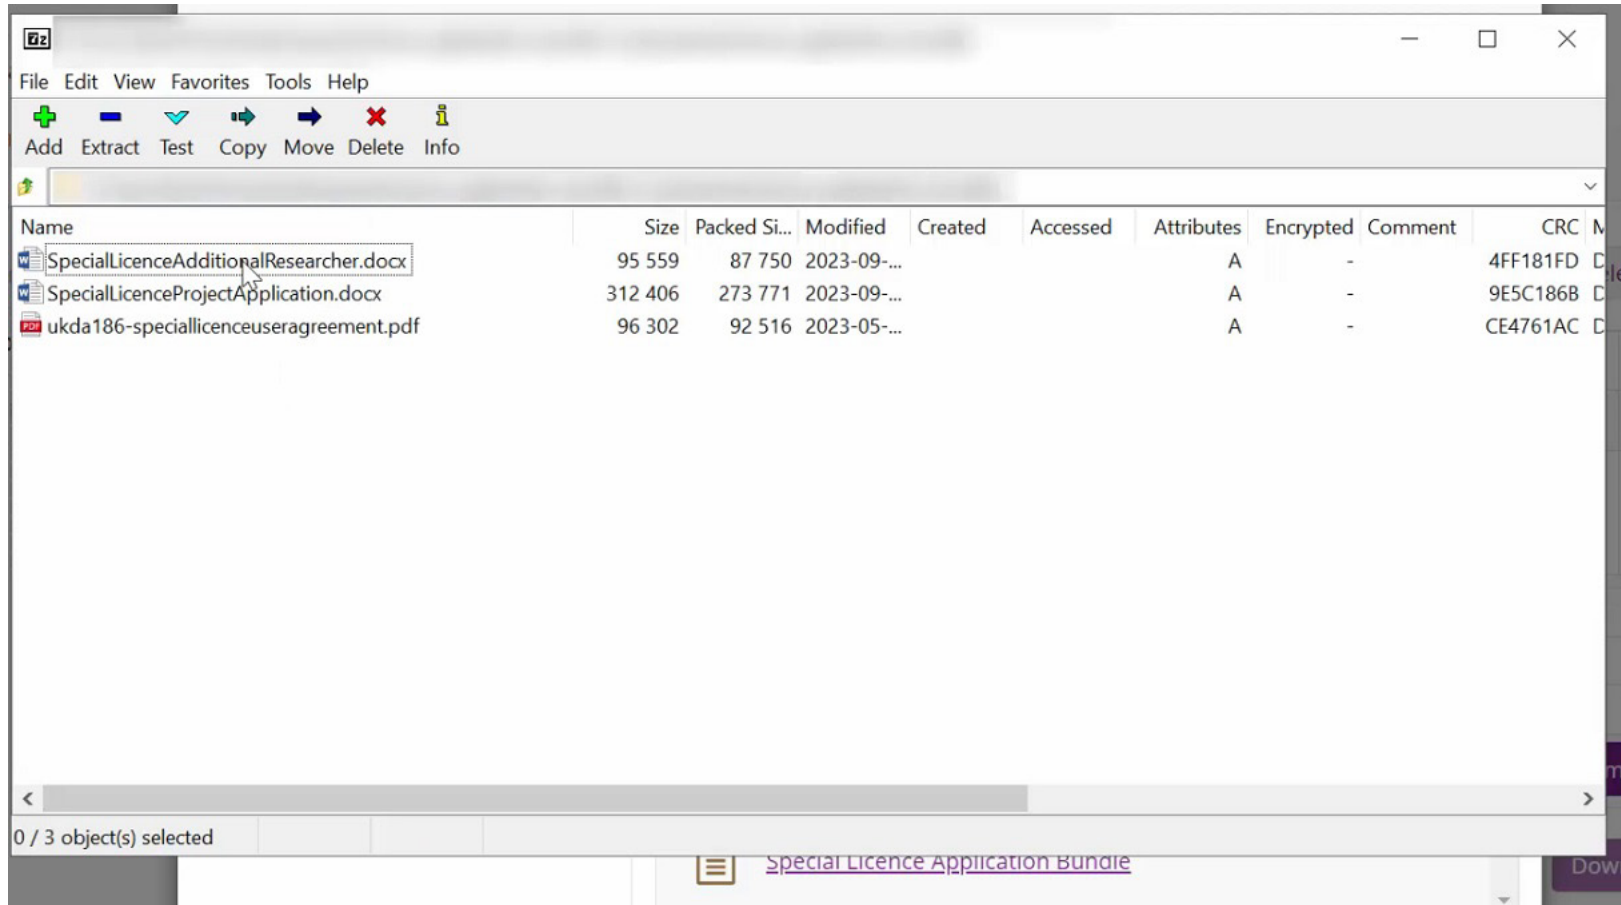

Once the Application Form is completed in full and the Special Licence User Agreements have been signed by all project members, the project lead must return by email to help@ukdataservice.ac.uk the bundle of documents mentioning the Project Number in the subject of the email.

If you wish to add additional Special Licence data to a project that has already been approved, please contact our helpdesk at help@ukdataservice.ac.uk or at 01206 872143 at your earliest convenience.

At the bottom of the main content area, there is a link with a document icon: Special Licence Application Bundle. A mouse cursor is hovering over this link.

Special Licence: Important information

- Users interested in accessing Special Licence data are advised to read the information in the document Research Data Handling and Security: Guide for Users \(PDF\). This includes guidance on storing and accessing data securely, avoiding inadvertent statistical disclosure, and how to permanently destroy copies of data files.
- IMPORTANT: when applying for social survey data, we strongly recommend that you consider using less restrictive versions of the data that are available.

End User Licence, Special Licence and Secure Access versions:

There are two versions of the main Understanding Society data. One is available under the standard End User Licence (EUL) agreement, and the other is a Special Licence (SL) version. The SL version contains month and year of birth variables instead of just age, more detailed country and occupation coding for a number of variables and various income variables have not been top-coded (see the documentation available with the SL version for more detail on the differences). Users are advised to first obtain the standard EUL version of the data to see if they are sufficient for their research requirements. The SL data have more restrictive access conditions; prospective users will need to complete an extra application form and demonstrate to the data owners exactly why they need access to the additional variables in order to get permission to use that version. The SL versions of the main Understanding Society and Innovation Panel studies may be found under SNs 6931 and 7083 respectively.

Low- and Medium-level geographical identifiers are also available subject to SL access conditions; see SNs 6666, 6668-6675, 7453-4, 7629-30, 7245 and 7248-9 (mainstage study) and 6908-6916, 7339 and 7637-41 (Innovation Panel). Schools data are available subject to SL access conditions in SN 7182. Higher Education establishments for Wave 5 are available subject to SL access conditions in SN 8578. Interviewer Characteristics data, also subject to SL access conditions is available in SN 8579. In addition, a fine detail geographic dataset (SN 6676) is available under more restrictive Secure Access conditions that contains British National Grid postcode grid references (at 1m resolution) for the unit postcode of each household surveyed, derived from the ONS National Statistics Postcode Directory (NSPD). For details on how to make an application for Secure Access dataset, please see the SN 6676 catalogue record.

Special Licence: Can I access from home?

Can I access special licence data from home? ^

Data providers agreed a set of twelve temporary additional conditions of use that will enable users to access Special Licence data from home. These measures mitigate against any additional risks posed by people working outside their institutional environment and provide assurance to data owners. This applies only to our current Permitted non-ONS datasets, following successful application

The following data owners permit continued safe access to the datasets listed below from home temporarily, with additional conditions being met. This applies only to our current response to COVID-19 measures where users are unable to travel to their work site, and ONLY where the data owners have agreed. The data owners that have agreed are detailed in the table below.

How do I request access from home to Special Licence data? ^

Users must complete, sign, and return the appendix in the Special Licence User Agreement, where they will need to agree to 12 conditions. They will then be permitted to use their institutionally approved secure connection method to access their approved standalone organisational/institutional workstation (PC, laptop, or other portable devices) at the location specified in their Special Licence application. Failure to comply with the conditions or accessing data from home without permission will be managed in accordance with the UK Data Service Licence Compliance Policy (PDF).

What about Special Licence data that are not listed below? ^

Use of data from home not listed below will constitute a breach of the Licence. Users who breach the licence will face a temporary suspension (minimum three months) from using any data provided by the UK Data Service. New owners are being added so please continue to check this page. List updated 18 July 2023.

SecureLab application requirements

1. There are slightly different application requirements depending on whether you want to access ONS data, non-ONS data or the Smart Energy Research Lab (SERL). This is because there are variations in the legal gateways to access those data.
2. We recommend you complete our Safe Researcher training (SRT) to become an Accredited Researcher (AR) first, then provide evidence for the other application requirements.
3. To access data from multiple data providers, please follow the guidance on who to apply to first, as this will speed up access.
4. The process is also different depending on whether you are applying alone, or as part of a team.
5. Controlled data are not generally available to students, but there are rare exceptions.
6. And finally, your organisation will need to accept legal responsibility for your data access.
7. [All controlled data application processes are determined by the data you would like to access and the legal gateways for access to those data (whether the Digital Economy Act (2017); UK GDPR or the Smart Energy Code). It is not determined by the UK Data Service.]

Which SecureLab application process?

Different application pathways set by data providers and legislative requirements mean there are slight variations in application processes. Please check carefully which pathway you need to follow.
