

Crime survey user conference 2017

Panel discussion:
How will we measure crime in ten years'
time?

Pat MacLeod

December 2017

The Office for Statistics Regulation

The regulatory arm of the UK Statistics Authority

- Code and regulation of official statistics
- Investigating potential issues and misuse
- Looking at the bigger picture, system wide reviews

How will we measure crime in ten years' time?

Every year this event draws together some of the most prominent and emerging expert users of crime survey data with commissioners and collectors of that data. We want to encourage you all to take a moment to view the future of UK crime surveys and to help shape it.

How will we measure crime in ten years' time?

We need to think about the future for UK crime surveys in a world where:

- Society and technology are changing rapidly
- Crime and offenders are changing equally rapidly
- Organisations are evolving in response
- We are living in a data-rich world
- Face-to-face surveys may be less viable
- Some foresee a possible existential threat to UK crime surveys

How will we measure crime in ten years' time?

3 panellists:

- Catherine Grant, Kantar Public
- Professor Andromachi Tseloni
- Joe Traynor, ONS

Discussion and questions from the floor